Insights into Animal Communication

By Faye Rogers

"I was thinking about people," said Polynesia. "..... You are the very first man to talk like us. Oh, sometimes people annoy me dreadfully-- such airs they put on--talking about 'the dumb animals.' DUMB!--Huh! Why I knew a macaw once who could say 'Good morning!' in seven different ways without once opening his mouth. He could talk every language--and Greek. An old professor with a gray beard bought him. But he didn't stay. He said the old man didn't talk Greek right, and he couldn't stand listening to him teach the language wrong. I often wonder what's become of him. That bird knew more geography than people will ever know.--PEOPLE, Golly! I suppose if people ever learn to fly--like any common hedge-sparrow--we shall never hear the end of it!"

- The Story of Doctor Dolittle by Hugh Lofting

A LITTLE BIT ABOUT ME

Welcome Dear Reader.

I am Faye, the Animal Communicator.

I have been interviewed by newspapers, radio stations, television, magazines and social media, and even been introduced as Dr Dolittle at times during my career as an Animal Communicator.

During this book I wish to tell you a little about me and animal communication, share from the animals and giving insight for you to delve into your heart space and connect.

As a child I loved my Dr Dolittle book, I wanted to sail through the world saving animals although it wasn't so much that the good doctor could hear the animals speak but of his doctoring that he offered to the animals, hearing the animals was already second to breathing for me.

When I was approaching the age to go to school my family sent me for a hearing tests as they assumed that I had a hearing problem due to I rarely talked or used words. This was because I instinctively "knew" and I did not need the physical expression of speech to communicate with others. Perhaps it was because I had an older sister who did all the speaking words for me, who knows. Or maybe I just felt no need to share actual vocalisation with others as I assumed they could hear what I was hearing.

At the hearing test I was found to have true and correct hearing for my age. Then many weeks after the hearing test somehow my speaking voice happened. It actually happened the day before I started school on my birthday celebration of turning 5 years old. I totally surprised my family as I started to hold conversations with them.

It was time that I had to step into the reality of the real world and become a player and vocalise myself.

I remember this so clearly due to the family's shocked reactions that I actually knew how to participate in a conversation of sorts. My parents would have been relieved that I could at least talk to a teacher if I had to.

Those sort of memories are strong upon you as you grow into being the adult that you become in time.

Other childhood memories include living in suburbia West Auckland, New Zealand. There was plenty of bush escapes and horse paddocks within walking distance. Even the short cut to primary school, I had to walk past a couple of horses that lived directly opposite the school gate. The horses gladly assisted me in eating my lunch before I entered the gates of school.

As a teenager there was a horse Duke that lived down the road that I regularly visited. I would buy Duke carrots out of money I had earned babysitting. A decade later Duke actually came to graze at a property that I was living at on the Upper Harbour. By then, Duke was an elderly gentleman horse.

I have many childhood memories of lying on my back watching the clouds in the blue sky. I would spend hours under the large lemon tree whilst heavy rain tumbled down and watching the birds sheltering in the lemon tree. Also watching the ladybugs walking over the lemon tree leaves. These are precious memories of actually being so greatly aware. If you look at your own childhood memories I am sure you will find something similar - some sort of awareness relating to the nature that was happening around you or animals that you would meet or live with.

There was also childhood memories of worrying experiences associated with animals and one comes to mind.

I was about 6 years old and I had an urgent need to run outside to save my beloved precious Persian cat named Sooty. Someone was trying to cat nap Sooty. This was at a time when cats were mysteriously disappearing around Auckland.

Other memories relating to nature that was happening around me are not so clear as it was just part of communing with nature – au naturel being in touch with the living forces that surround one.

As a family we would head to the beach for 6 weeks of summer holidays. The car loaded up with parents, kids and all our bits and pieces needed for holidaying at the beach. The cats would normally come along for the summer holidays also.

Living in West Auckland I had bush, the streams, horse paddocks and beaches that were surrounding me. I also had the holiday canvas of Franklin seaside baches (holiday homes), retirement homes, beach and open countryside of very large farms.

It was in some respects a very magical childhood due to the exchange with nature that surrounded me whilst growing up, which made my world much brighter.

I am not going to ramble too much about myself – instead I would rather share with you about Animal Communication and then a few messages from the animals that will hopefully inspire you to discover more.....

ANIMALS LOVE BEING HEARD

An Animal Communicator can be called different names i.e. Pet Whisper, Pet Psychic. In 2009 I was asked to write articles for various magazines sharing about the animals and so I have stuck to the title of Animal Communicator since then.

People over the years have contacted me for various reasons to communicate with the animals they share their lives with.

Here is a recent example:

Which Animal Is Toileting On The Bed?

Susan in the USA wanted to know what animal was toileting on the beds. Susan has many animals that she shares her home with, actually 7 of her own animals could have been the culprit. Plus at the time she also had the addition of 10 visiting animals that were coming & going for various reasons.

It turned out the 'culprit' was her own small dog Brodie.

Brodie explained his reasons for toileting and this was relating to Brodie's companion giant breed dog. Mel was due to have puppies in about 10 days and Brodie wanted to lay his scent down as a warning to others to help protect Mel.

All paws pointed at Brodie and also Brodie came forward to advise - yes it was him.

He certainly wasn't shy about admitting this as his paw also went up when asking who it was. His reason was that he was worried about Mel and wanted to protect her. So by laying down his scent he was trying to warn off stranger animals (this wasn't due to the visiting animals as some of the visitors had been there for quite a period of time and the others were regular visitors).

My advice to Susan was to talk to Brodie and tell him he didn't have to do this. Once Susan told Brodie she can care for Mel and that it wasn't his responsibility, Brodie stopped toileting immediately.

Sometimes by just knowing the reason - then we humans can make overtures to alter the situation. In the situation of Brodie - Susan advising him to stop worrying and that it was her duty to look after Mel not his and all he had to do was to relax.

Also communicating with animals is being aware of more than we could possibly imagine, one example comes to mind:

A Warning

In 2008, I set up a small group of 'special close friends' who were scattered all over the globe for online tuition on Animal Communication.

One of the assignments I gave the group was to seek a message from an animal friend that they live with, and to share the message with the group.

As I was also participating, I asked one of my dogs for a message and yes he shared a lovely message for the group. But then he started to share a message for one person who lives in the USA that was part of this online group.

The message was to warn her of her outside back stairs and the message for her DO NOT WALK down the back stairs at night time until she had checked out the stairs.

Her reply back was that she uses the back stairs at night time mainly for carrying the kitty litter boxes to be emptied. She said she would have fallen severely as an electrical cord had fallen across the stairs and she wouldn't have noticed the electrical cord due to position of the kitty boxes held out in front of her.

Now how did a dog that I live with know this?

Animals have ability to see far without limitation and opening up your heart and consciousness to hear their wisdom, their joy, their laughter, their love, and their worries: highs & lows. It is a special gift.

The majority of children are able to hear the animals speak but hearing the animals is something that is sometimes shuffled away whilst growing up.

WORKSHOPS

I do run workshops for people to open up to hear their own animals voices. Or if they are already hearing their own animals voices, the workshop helps to bring in more credibility for them.

The workshops are really great fun and life changing for many that attend. Amazing friendships take place between the attendees.

Also the feedback I receive later, is very special:

- the attendee's relationship has altered with their animal companion, or
- the attendee did something (due to the skills they took away from the workshop) that then lead to something else.

Talking about workshops brings to mind a couple of small stories:

- Kathleen attended a weekend workshop. Kathleen had adopted a beautiful cat Mandy from the SPCA. But her beautiful sensitive Meika cat had shifted out of the home and was refusing to come into the home for months due to the Mandy's presence. During the workshop (on Saturday) I did a little bit of energy balancing between both cats and allowed them to share their perspectives of their relationship. Imagine Kathleen's delight when she arrived home on Saturday night to find both beautiful cats sharing her bed along with her wee dog. Also my delight when Kathleen was recounting this on Sunday at the workshop.
- At the workshops I do include healing modalities. I received below this email from an attendee a few weeks after the workshop and it relates to her beautiful dog. "We're communicating at a deeper level now and she is becoming calmer. I have done some healing work (hands-on) on her throat. Since giving the healing she hasn't coughed once."

- Another email that I received a few days after a workshop from an attendee who received healing for herself during the weekend workshop wrote: "I was just thinking of you last night as my right arm and elbow was feeling really good despite the fact I was washing down the pantry, ceiling and all. Also I was able to cup my left hand to gather crumbs off the bench as I cleaned them up, and that's the first time I've been able to do this since my accident!"

WHAT IS ANIMAL COMMUNICATION?

Animal Communication is the ability to receive messages from animals as all have higher wisdom. Animal Communication is the ability to be an open vessel for animals, to hear their wisdom, to hear their reasons for being and sharing their voice.....

Animals love being heard – they so cherish the specialness of recognition as a being with consciousness – actually of great consciousness.

Animal's wisdom is clear, uncluttered and full of simplicity – simplicity isn't the notion that another hasn't got intelligence. Instead simplicity is relating to less complexity in make up more ability to live in the now.

Communicating with animals, communing with nature..... Another way to think of this is relating to being in the heart of self, being open to receiving, being true to self but also being true to others – no clouded perceptions, no thought forms other than what you are receiving from another and sure there will be shared dialogue on the way as you will be gaining insights and asking for further to be shared.

There is higher wisdom everywhere and we are in a period that many humans are awakening and becoming more aware of their own higher wisdom but also higher wisdom of others. One simply goes into the 'true wisdom of self, true wisdom relating to all'.

Everything is energy, energy cannot be destroyed, energy cannot be created but energy can be transformed – maybe transformed could also be looked as transferred or exchanged.....tapping into the consciousness of animals is tapping into their essence, into their soul, into their physical being and allowing the messages to come forth. It is being open to receiving, being in heart of self with no preconceived ideas or judgement. Just letting the process happen.

If we start to play with the energy of judgement this clouds our perceptions and we have already formed our ideas before we ask another to share their perceptions. Where does this lead?? If I had to ask an animal a question and I had already judged the situation then I am not doing the animal a service as it would just be a reflection of my judgement.

There is a big difference between judgement and awareness, leaving judgement out of all communications and just being in the energy of awareness relating to the animal (or animals), one on one through your heart energy and the animal's heart energy. Therefore the FIRST STEP towards Animal Communication is – being in heart energy.

The SECOND STEP for communicating with animals is grounding.

Being grounded is important for yourself. If you are anxious or worried then this is going to impact on any animals you communicate with.

How do you feel when you are around anxious people or stressed people?

So keeping yourself as grounded, centered and calm is vitally important when communicating with animals.

People ground themselves differently. For some people it can be feeling like tree roots coming out of their feet. For others, it could be feeling the natural rhythm of Mother Earth who has her own pulsing. For others it could be feeling a crystal or stone's energy held deep in the ground that they feel grounded too.

And for others it could even be touching something physically - maybe a tree or even a grounding stone that they feel deeply connected to.

The THIRD STEP for communicating with animals is setting up a sacred space. Ask for protection from Angels, Guides & Higher Beings of Wisdom of protecting energy. Not only for the benefit of yourself but also for the animal so that any exchange of energy is kept clear & uncluttered.

ANIMAL'S ENERGY

Every species will have different energy, a horse feels so different than a dog and this is not relating to the physical appearance. It relates to the actual energy that is portrayed or presented as every horse will have different energy. So a horse feels like a horse but each individual horse has their own unique energy. i.e. species energy and individual energy - so this isn't much different than viewing with the eyes. Instead you are viewing with the senses or some might say ESP or telepathic or clairvoyance.

We all have the ability to open the senses, it is getting out of the mental thought form and being in the heart energy of self - being open to receiving. Not putting limited structure on yourself but allowing yourself to be unlimited. Sensing the animal's own unique energy!!!

I will touch on the Five Clairs soon but first you need to understand the animal's ENERGY. This is what you will be tapping into - their consciousness of all they are i.e. physical/mental/emotional/spiritual being.

And also the energy goes out to Divinity Energy/Source Energy/All That Is/ Godhead or could be called something else depending on your viewpoint.

Remember - viewpoint isn't judgement, as it is also relating to awareness.

What your awareness is will be different to another's awareness. This could be due to your own insights, experiences and teachings that you have received.

And yes, sure we can become clouded by teachings - by being taught how we should think or even experiences that we have undertaken. I am asking you to look deeper within as you also capture wisdom of all you have been.

To understand energy think about:

- what a beach feels like and how the beach stirs the senses,
- think about what a mountain feels like and how you would feel looking at the mountain or sitting on the mountain,
- what does a busy city feel like compared to a small town?
- the jungle compared to the desert and so on.....
- Then think about what does a horse feel like compared to an antelope?
- What does an elephant feel like compared to a mouse?

It's not comparing one is better than another.

It is just appreciating the individualism of each species and then the uniqueness of the individual.

If you live with multiple dogs - are their personalities all the same?

Are their quirks all the same, are their reactions all the same?

It would be impossible for all to be the same, so this is individualism, uniqueness and is to be treasured.

The differences are encouraged as it makes one stand out. We are not robotic nor are the animals - we are all uniquely special in how we are.

When communicating or communing with nature you will sense the energy of an individual but also will sense the species energy:

- Fred Horse who could have huge "giving" energy and this is due to his inner being - coupled with Horse energy. But as Fred is a gelding - he will feel energetically different than George Stallion Horse. Both 'boys' will definitely energetically present Horse species energy.

FIVE CLAIRS

I did chat a bit earlier about the Five Clairs.

The Five Clairs relates to the way of sending and receiving information.

For myself I am receptive to all 5 Clairs.

For another, they might be receptive to one Clair or a couple of the Clairs.

REMEMBER that being receptive to 5 isn't necessarily better than someone who is receptive to 1 - it is just what it is.

Clairvoyance (clear seeing): shown through mental imaging, pictures, colours, shapes and symbols that can form part of a communication

'Subjective' Clairvoyance refers to seeing within your own thoughts

'Objective' Clairvoyance refers to seeing images as they appear in front of you

Clairaudience (clear hearing): Can hear words, music or other sounds. Accents can be distinguished

'Subjective' Clairaudience is hearing within your own thoughts

'Objective' Clairaudience refers to hearing voices physically

Clairsentience (clear sensing): A sense of knowing or feeling a situation. Emotions and personalities are relayed this way

Clairgustance: Being aware of tastes not physically present

Clairessence/Clairolfacience: Being aware of smells that are not physically present

THE WONDER OF ANIMALS

“A human being is a part of the whole called by us universe, a part limited in time and space. He experiences himself, his thoughts and feeling as something separated from the rest, a kind of optical delusion of his consciousness. This delusion is a kind of prison for us, restricting us to our personal desires and to affection for a few persons nearest to us. Our task must be to free ourselves from this prison by widening our circle of compassion to embrace all living creatures and the whole of nature in its beauty.”

- Albert Einstein

I have called this mini e-book:

'The Wonder of Animals - Being Owned by Animals - Insights into Animal Communication'

I add “Being Owned by Animals” as a bit of quirkiness as animals certainly rule my life.

It isn't about ownership of who owns who, but it is about sharing the wonder of animals. We are guardians to the animals we live with, but sometimes our animals are guardians to us also as they are here assisting us and supporting us so greatly.

Also us humans have a great responsibility to care for this planet and all that is of this planet, as we are the guardians of this planet. We are very destructive to habitats that are natural, we have lost so many species due to we just do not always know how to be, do not know how to cherish care and guard for the future for all.

- Do you have animal/s in your life?
- If so how does this animal/s make you feel?
- Is your day much brighter due to your animal companion/s?
- Does your heart miss a beat on many occasions due to you are feeling so much love, so alive, of being held in unconditional love due to the love an animal/s has for you?

And sure we can have frustrations, sadness, worries associated with our animal companions. But then we also have this with humans that we associate with. We do not receive judgement from animals because when an animal loves you they love unconditionally – animals do have awareness, awareness is different than judgement.

Domesticated animals can be like human children always asking humans to join them on their level of existence i.e. life is happening now, explore life, explore laughter, sense sense sense and this will allow you to experience and to also achieve. And also to learn to live in the NOW with freedom & ease.

Exercise:

MIND MAP what one of your animals makes you truly feel and see what words explode on the paper in front of you – maybe words of 'patience, heart center, true, annoyance, giving, receiving, presence, stability, always being there, needy, special, calm, quiet, rowdy, peaceful, excitable, won't listen, won't respond, uptight, nervous, impatient, powerful, majestic, beautiful' and whatever words come to you sit and reflect on each word, then reflect on your animal companion.

Don't forget to take time to reflect on yourself relating to these same words that you have mind mapped for an animal companion.

How do these words relate to your own individualism – maybe there are similar traits:

Have you put down the word 'impatient' and maybe you are also impatient.

Have you put down the word 'strength' and maybe you have amazing strength or maybe the animal walking alongside you is to help you with strength when you need this or to teach you about strength.

The animals that we surround ourselves with can be a reflection of who we are but also maybe are here as great teachers. The animal could have an energy that you will have to find something extra in yourself to live in harmony with this animal.

If you don't share your life with an animal companion you can turn to the nature that surrounds you and mind map where this is concerned.

How do you feel about the wild species that live around us, what do they make you feel?

You can apply mind mapping to the trees, the sun, the wind, the waterways, the colours of nature splashed so vividly in front of you.

Do you sometimes feel speechless at the beauty of an animal/s, the beauty of the landscape, the wonder of living here at this present time?

Do you feel in-tune with nature?

How do you feel when you hear of natural or man-made disasters that affect the air, the waterways, the destruction of forests, the destruction of the landscape, the destruction of animal's habitat and extinction of species?

How do you feel when hearing of so many species on the endangered list, and also the destruction of humans from other humans?

Does all this make you feel overwhelmed and powerless?

Or through just knowing this is relating to awareness and through knowing you can make changes just from being, from making informed choices on what is right, from looking at your own environment and even planting a tree.

As humans we throw away so much - maybe we can recycle or utilise or give away food or sell what no longer serves one rather than placing in the rubbish - there has to be a better way.

The beauty of the internet means that we are now in times that paperwork can be filed away and less trees are cut down due to this.

Also due to the power of the internet more is exposed which has led to more awareness, being more aware is due to how global we have become – all very exciting.

Through the internet there is Em-Powerment. There are online protests that if something resonates with one we can sign. The number of protests that I have signed (due to having awareness through the internet) means that I do have a voice globally. I have also received notification of positive outcomes due to global pressure – so through the internet we are connected and we do make a difference – Em-Powerment.

We are all CONNECTED and this relates to something bigger but we are all connected so another's pain can be our pain, another's plight can be our plight.

But then through support to another or support of a cause we are making a difference. Therefore if we are in heart energy – we are all making a difference from just being here. Doing what feels right for you, even giving a comforting smile to a stranger that is having a difficult day, can make the stranger's day much brighter – we all touch each other in a special way.

UNCONDITIONAL LOVE

You have all heard the phrase 'animals are unconditional love'

As this is only a little mini e-book – I have asked a few animals to share their own individual unique messages that relates to their own perceptions on 'unconditional love'...Every animal will have their own unique insights into how they perceive 'unconditional love' and their own unique individual way of sharing.

So hold onto your hats and be in your heart and feel the wonder of what the animals are sharing...

I turn to my wonderful dog Emerald to share:

Emerald Dog

"Unconditional love is a collective energy of ALL there is, there is no simpler purity than the energy of love there is no strings of conditions attached, there is only giving, there is no sense of shame involved there is only love.

ALL is of love but so few know this or have awareness that ALL is love. When one steps into the true heart of true love then this is unconditional love. The depth of the soul is incredibly deep and it is deeper than the oceans so therefore you do not have in the material world an understanding of how deep your soul is but in the true world of ALL there is there is only wisdom, knowledge, understanding the energy of love"

I now turn to cute sweet Peaches guinea pig to share on unconditional love:

Peaches Guinea Pig

“I am love, my colour is of the sunshine and my energy is of love, I love being me and sometimes one has to start with oneself first before one can explore the energy of unconditional love.

My message is for all humans who read this message to reflect on the message my message isn't aimed at one particular human but a message of awareness and my message holds no judgement as it only holds the energy of love & awareness.

What do you love about yourself or are you full of criticism and judgement towards thyself – maybe you are having a bad hair day and even I have these as my fur can sometimes get matted and this can be annoying till the fur is trimmed slightly but then maybe if you sight something about yourself that you don't like and it could be your build, your shape of face or even your nose and you might say to yourself this is of annoyance to me but I truly do love myself – being in love with thyself puts everything in balance as the annoyance seems so unimportant and so unreal.

Do you touch another in a special way as I touch my family in a special way, my family is humans and animals. Do you see that you are actually bigger than you could possibly see yourself and this also relates to Emerald's message of how deep is your soul as you walk on the earthly plane full of hope & longings but the bigness of yourself can be exposed or hidden from view and just maybe you hide the deepness of yourself so that you do not view who you are. When you view yourself then you will be aware of how deep you are but also you will be aware of what unconditional love is as this is who you are but maybe you cloud this with rules and with strings of conditions attached as this weighs down the love essence so the love essence of your true self is not shown to the world and not shown to yourself”

I now turn to super special elderly Beanie sheep to share:

Beanie Sheep

“Love is important to all, many are seeking love because that is the desire to be fulfilled. And animals are always seeking because they want to sustain themselves, to experience their body forms so animals are really not that greatly different than humans are they, just that our world is different than your world. Our world in some respects is dependent on your world so therefore we do not have the freewill that humans have but then humans do not have the freewill they should have so this is my message that when freewill comes to ALL there will still be natural lores of acceptable behaviour ‘treat thy neighbour how one wishes to be treated’ but when there is freewill for All there will only be unconditional love exposed, explored on this planet.

Animals are a constant reminder to humans to be in heart energy, and the exploited animals do not have freewill - these exploited animals are also asking you to open your heart up further and to feel their plights. The animals that you surround yourself with that make your day fuller are allowing you to open your heart up further due to sharing of love, the animals that live amongst you that are not governed so severely by humans i.e. the birds nesting in the trees, the ground lizards, chirping crickets, buzzing bees and other wild species add beauty, variety and specialness and awe so if you are in awe and filled your heart with their beauty or power or ability then this is opening up heart further, and the animals that are exploited that you feel their plights is also being in the heart and I am not advising you to take on the exploited animals’ pain personally as this could make you sick, unbalanced and ungrounded but of knowing that you as a person can make a difference in some way that your own pricks of consciousness is advising something is wrong and you can bring in changes just from being here and believing in yourself and being in heart energy for humanity towards others – you have to believe in yourself and your convictions rather than being persuaded by another that what you feel is not correct or it is okay for this to happen – being true to yourself is being in heart.

Each individual regardless of form i.e. animal or human or natural form will have love essence. Even a tree has beauty energy of love and the tree will seek oxygen, will seek sunlight, will seek hydration and this is also energy of love because without love one would not seek, one would not be, love is what drives one to be who they are but also to seek further”

Emerald now steps forward to share a little bit more:

More From Emerald Dog

“Now you might see what my messages are relating to unconditional love collective energy of ALL there is. Look at the other messages shared as ALL are unconditional love but ALL are seeking and do not see words seeking relating to destruction due to how Beanie Sheep has responded as her message is relating to seeking of free will for ALL, and how Peaches Guinea Pig has shared is relating to love thyself first so that love can expand, love can be shared without strings of conditions attached due to being in true heart energy of ALL that you are and sure this is 3 different animals perceptions of love but when in true heart energy of ALL that you are then you are not judging another their failings instead you are of awareness and relating to that you are aware but you also do not cast judgement.

Animals are highly aware and have the ability to know before something happens and this has been documented many a time by scientists so this isn't anything new. Being aware is also relating to keeping yourself safe, making good choices, but having judgement is relating to suffocating yourself because all your thoughts are judged before you present them, all the love you share is judged before you present love so this is being untrue to all that you are.”
